Among the best are Aquatica at SeaWorld Orlando, Volcano Bay at Universal Orlando, and two parks at Disney World, Typhoon Lagoon and Blizzard Beach. More importantly, several Florida water parks are the only ones in the U.S. open year-round. (Well, outdoor water parks anyway. There are indoor water parks in other parts of the country that are open all year round.) Most of the major water parks are located in central Florida near major theme parks, but there are places to get wet statewide.
